Planter's Chain and the Missionary's Cross — A Prayer of Banishing

Story Song (Spoken Prayer)

In the mighty name of Jesus Christ,
Breaker of yokes,
Lord of the true cross—

We stand against 2701 to 2800.

We call out colonial yokes:

Ghana–British–Babylon slave trades,
the old slave market and the modern slave market,
Australia links,
American colonial dream,
Kenyan culture-erase,
German helmet,
Planter's chain (2748),

government ledger (2701),
telescope and admiral links (2800),
missionaries' cross twisted into empire (2771),
axe, tendrac helm,
2622, 2722, 2748 chain-links,
1290, 2051,
2702–2799,
and every bot system in this range.

We also name the machines of false holding:
Scranton Reality Anchors — bronze that claims to thicken the world;
SCP-2317 — the door, the seven pillars, the last chain, the
devourer-boast;
we refuse both the hive-nest and the theater of containment.

By the Sword of the Spirit, the Word of God:

Planter's chain — cut.
Slave market, old and new — closed.
Ledger of human price — cancelled in the blood.
Missionary cross used as a whip — rejected; only the true cross stands.
Telescope of empire and admiral's claim — darkened.
Love of money — exposed as root of many evils.
Every bot, helm, and yoke — bound and banished.

Christ did not die to baptize the slave ship.
He died to free captives.
His Sword banishes all these evils.

Amen.
All glory to Jesus Christ alone.

The Cross That Was Not a Chain

They sailed with iron and a book,
Sold names across the water,
Planted chains in the earth,
And hung a cross on the mast of the yoke.

Then the Son of Man stood where the market was.
He did not bless the planter's iron.
He did not need a Scranton box or a seven-chain door.
He spoke one Word. The yoke broke.

The true cross is not a colonial tool.
The Devourer's door is not the last word.
Christ's Sword ends the market.
His freedom remains.

Psalms (David)

Psalm Against the Yoke

O Lord, the ledger still prices the living.
The planter's chain is quiet but not gone.
A cross was used to bless the sale.
My soul will not call that holy.

You break the rod of the oppressor.
You cancel the writing against the poor.
You are not an anchor of bronze.
You are the Living God.

Cut every yoke in this range.
In the Name of Jesus we stand.
Your Sword has spoken.

Proverbs (Solomon)

Wisdom Over Money and Chains

The love of money is a root of many evils.

The one who baptizes the slave route
inherits blood on the ledger.

The one who trusts a false door of containment still sleeps under the devourer's shadow.

But the one who fears the Lord
refuses the planter's chain.

Wisdom will not sell a soul.

Wisdom holds the true cross, not the empire's.

Banish the market.

Banish the bot and the helm.

The Sword of Christ is enough.

Riddle of the Yoke and the Door

I price the living in a book.
I hang a cross upon a chain.
I open a door and call it safety
while the last link fails.

Yet one Sword spoken over market and door
ends both.

What ends me?
